GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER

BELL MUST GO TO PRISON—JURY SAYS VOLUNTARY MANSLAUGHTER

"HE SHOULD BE HUNG"

Declaration of Mrs. Dury—Case Ended All But Size of Sentence by Judge

Denver, Feb. 12—2 p. m.—"Guilty of voluntary manslaughter" was the verdict rendered by the jury this afternoon in the case of Burdette Bell, charged with the murder of C. C. Dury, who stole away his wife and baby.

"I want you to be easy with me for the sake of little Dury," said I thank you for the very fair and impartial manner in which you sat in judgment of the case" said Bell to Judge Shattuck after the verdict had been rendered.

The maximum sentence is one year and the maximum two years' imprisonment.

When the verdict was read Bell appeared pleased. As the jurors filed from the box he shook hands with each. Then he said to Judge Shattuck:

"While I am surprised that I was not acquitted, I must say you to be lenient in imposing sentence on account of little Dury."

Mrs. Dury Talks.

While Bell and his wife were talking, Mrs. Dury thanked Attorney Shattuck and Attorney Stevens for their manner in which he prosecuted the case for the state.

"I want to thank you," said Mrs. Dury. "That was about all I be hung. Mrs. Bell broke up my home and I have no regard for her. You have done all you could to convict, and I hope that you succeed in sending Bell to the scaffold."

Denver, Feb. 12.—"I would kill the man who, having stolen my wife and baby, held him at bay, with six-inch bands on my person."

This was one of the statements Mrs. Dury, called by Attorney Hoskins of Bell in his defense of Burdette Bell, accused of murder in the first degree in the killing of C. C. Dury, in the Lon Canon rooming house on Dec. 26.

Mrs. Dury's plea to the jury was a shocking example of maternity's ecstacy, appealing to the sympathy more than anything else. In spite of the statement of the defense that their plea would be that of self-defense, there crept in over and again in Mrs. Dury's talk the element of the "unwritten law."

"If that's written in the statutes of the law, gentlemen of the jury," said Hilter, "but if it is written in the heart of every man that he shall kill the man who robs him of his wife and baby. There is something way down deep in the heart of men that has been there ever since love for woman first sprang into being, and which shall abide until the millenium which says that a man shall prize as his dearest possession his wife and child."

Woman's Mystery

Attorney Hilter began his speech quietly, evenly. "Man is a mystery," he said, "but woman is greater mystery. You may fathom the heart of a man, but you cannot fathom the heart of a woman. But there is in some men the power to give to some women so pure and so transcendent a love as to surpass all understanding. And that is what this man here has done for his wife."

Hilter spoke of Bell's character and his reputation. "There has never been a blot on it," he said, "and he sits in this courtroom today as free from crime as when he came out West, like we young men did years ago."

Bell made a brave effort to control his emotions but the tears would flow. Seated in the front row, among the seats reserved for visitors, Mrs. Bell wept bitterly during the whole of Hilter's plea. Not once did the husband and wife exchange glances, but it is evident that a reconciliation is forthcoming if Bell should be acquitted. There is evidence of his sensitivity by the jurors who, it seemed, were intensely

EXPLORING THE BIG CAVE

CHRISTENED NEDFROST —CHEYENNE MAN CHARGED WITH OVERWORKING EMPLOYES

QUIET DAY IN STATE

Government Will Be Asked to Segregate Land Under Which Lies the Great Cave

Cody, Wyo., Feb. 11.—The great cave recently discovered in Cedar mountain by Ned Frost, and believed to be larger than Mammoth cave in Kentucky has been christened Ned's front cave in honor of its discoverer. Several additional exploring parties have penetrated the cave during the past week and many of them succeeded in exhibiting its extent. There are so many passages and halls and rooms that no one of such length that it is not probable that the cave will ever be fully explored until the organized party, with unlimited time at its command, undertakes to do so. Local people are inclined to the belief that the cave is an extinct geyser, geological action that the Cody district formerly was a geyser field for greater than the Yellowstone park. In several of the passages of the cave, which have been explored for more than a mile from the entrance, the air grows purer as both it and the ground rise. It is believed these passages open at points near the foot of the mountain.

The government is to be requested to segregate the section of land under which the cave is found and now no protection for its beauty and grandeur exists. Recently a big wagon load are being broken off and removed.

Charged With Overworking Men

Cheyenne, Feb. 12.—[Special Telegram.]—Nedfrost is charged with overworking his employes. It is said that representatives of organized labor have brought the matter to the attention of the authorities, charging M. J. Barry, well known Fergenson street, both by day and night. He drove two men to work a continuous day and night shift covering a period of three days, each man working them like for either sleep or meals. It is charged he once was still so compelled to labor, and the complaint sets forth the fact that "these men may still be at work in the said livery establishment at any hour of the day or night, still being compelled to do their slavish duties in the said premises."

MORRIBLE ACCIDENT REPORTED AT LOVEJOY'S GARAGE

Last night after dark Elmer Lovejoy had occasion to go out into the country with a party of friends in his automobile. He selected the newest and best machine in the garage for the trip. Elmer felt exceptionally good on this particular occasion, and consequently the fate which befell his favorite "Juno," and the prolonged look of consternation on his countenance this morning.

Elmer had not gone more than a mile from the garage when the machine struck a rock in the road so hard that it broke the crank case and shattered the front wheels and axle. The car turned turtle, carrying all the passengers with it into the road on the other side of the bridge and rendered the country-side as smoothly as an eagle soars in the sky beneath the stars of heaven. It was a most delightful trip. Ask Elmer about it.

FRICK AND FRAZER AT LAST IN POSSESSION

The scramble over possession of the Eggleston building, formerly occupied by the Electric theatre company, is at an end, and W. P. Frazer and Fred Frick are in possession today, being engaged in cleaning it up ready for occupancy with a moving picture show. These gentlemen inform us that they expect at once to open up a first-class ten cent show—somewhat different in many respects from that nothing will be put on which can in the least shock the modesty of the most fastidious patron of the land. The exact date for the initiation of the new show will be announced, as a great deal of work remains to be done on the interior of the building in proper shape.

SPECIAL MEETING

Special meeting of the Commercial Club has been called for Saturday evening, 8:30 p. m. Hon. Stephen A. Day, Mr. Walter H. Ellis, of Ft. Collins, Colo., acted as Commercial and dry farming expert will address the club in regard to the DRY FARMING CONGRESS to be held in Cheyenne, Wyo., on the 23, 24 and 25 of this month. The club has been asked to extend formal aid to the DRY FARMING CONGRESS and it is important that as many members as be present that this matter may be determined. F12-31

ONE HUNDERD FIFTEEN SALOONS EFFECTED

According to the Cheyenne Tribune one hundred and fifteen saloons and possibly more will be closed in business by the passage of the Brock bill. The bill is being called the Brock-Wilson bill prohibiting saloons outside of incorporated towns.

Of these twenty-five are in Sheridan county and twenty-one in Uinta county, being chiefly in the towns of the numerous coal camps in these counties.

It is estimated that eight saloons in Albany county will be effected, four in Big Horn county, three in Crook county, the same number in Converse, six in Carbon, eighteen in Fremont, three in Laramie, four in Natrona, fourteen in Sweetwater, two in Johnson and three in Weston.

THEY WANT MORE LAND

FORT RUSSELL OFFICERS GOING OVER THE CROW CREEK RESERVATION

OBJECT TO BUY LAND

Hers Today Jobbing Land Owners' Names From County Records—Driven Drive Across Country

Lieutenant W. B. Weaver and Sergeant Edward Walt are in Laramie this afternoon obtaining names of land claimants in the Crow Creek reservation, from whom the government desires to buy territory for the accommodation of the troops in their manoeuvre problem. In the past the soldiers have used all the territory they wanted for manoeuvre purposes but the government, not owning the land, has been compelled to pay for the same in the form of rental damages. The object now is to secure ample manoeuvre territory by purchase and hold it as such. The officers here brought a map of the present manoeuvre grounds and also of lands they desire to secure. They drove across the reservation behind a pair of government mules and inspected the country, taking two days for a drive of 53 miles. They are direct from Fort Russell.

A MURDER AND SUICIDE

DENVER MAN COMMITS A MOST REVOLTING CRIME—WOMAN KILLS HUSBAND

THIS WICKED WORLD

Taft Returns From the Canal Zone —Train Hurled Down 400-Ft Embankment

Denver, Feb. 11.—Desperate at the unfaithfulness given him by his wife, after a heated quarrel, that she could no longer live with him and asking him to leave, J. F. McCarty of 1624 Williams street shot his wife this morning, and the Board of Health dying an hour later at the county hospital.

The shooting came as a fitting climax to a long life of misery on the part of Mrs. McCarty, who claimed she had been dogged every where by no longer worth the living by a husband whose chief occupation was dreaming of chimeric wealth that was to be obtained from an investment that never materialized.

Kills Her Husband

Cripple Creek, Feb. 11.—With her two children by her side in bed, Mrs. Bedelia Durham this morning shot a revolver from under her pillow and then and instantly killed her husband, Alfred Durham, a miner employed on the Vindicator property.

Mrs. Durham, her husband says, was abusing her when she fired the shot, and that she had an incendiary of killing him. There were no witnesses to the tragedy and the only account of the shooting is that of Mrs. Durham.

Taft Returns

New Orleans, Feb. 11—Early spring weather marked the first day of the visit of President-elect Taft to Louisiana, and the party left Baton Rouge at 9 o'clock.

Two Killed

Frisko, Colo., Feb. 12—While hooking some oil tanker Pass on the Utah railroad, whose terminus is at Frisco, Utah, a head station six miles from this city, an engine and some gasoline cars left the track and down a 400-foot embankment into a 60-ap in the car, killing Engineer Joseph Lane and a fireman named Edward chewbacker in today's Boomerang.

This meeting is called to hear an address by an expert on dry farming Mr. Walter H. Olin of Fort Collins who is working in the interests of the dry farming congress to be held at Cheyenne on the 23, 24 and 25 of this month. With representatives of the various counties present, also from all the states of our own country where irrigation is practiced besides from other countries, it ought to be of unusual interest to the people of this section. All citizens whether engaged in dry farming or not are interested in the development of the state and can well afford to contribute somewhat to make the Congress a complete success. For this occasion the club invites everybody, whether members of the club or not, to attend and learn more about this scientific method of farm and its needs, and to have a share in the emergencies. Remember the place. The time is 8:30 o'clock tomorrow evening.

WAR CLOUD IS DISSIPATED

AFTERMATH OF WORK

California's Action Relieves Serious Situation, Is the Statement Given Out

Washington, Feb. 12.—The tension is relieved. The war cloud has been dissipated between Japan and the United States by the new footing on which affairs between the two nations are placed by the bill to be introduced in congress from the whites in California's public schools, in a tone between incomplete website and the bank of a stream of chimerite, polish "Bulbs" and threw himself in to his big office chair, relaxed in his body, mind and spirits.

If the California home had voted for the measure, instead of against it, the condition of mind into which it would have thrown the president would have been appalling. In diplomacy of spirit no one could predict what he might have done.

The action of the legislature does relieve a very trying situation. It was not nearly so serious as the president would have had the country believe. But it would have furnished provocation for Japanese jingoists to raise a storm against Americans that would have seriously interrupted business between the two countries.

The result is a postponement of the issue, on the part of Japan for future concerns made the question will probably be up with increased interest. And the next precedent may not be as successful in dealing with it on the present case.

GOOD EVENING.

Thought for Today — With charity toward none, with charity for all; with firmness in the right, as God gives us to see the right, let us finish the work we are in to bind up the nation's wounds; to care for him who shall have borne the battle and for his widow and his orphans; to do all which may achieve and cherish a just and lasting peace among ourselves and with all nations.—Abraham Lincoln.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

One hundred years ago today was born one of the greatest men, if not the greatest, that the world has ever known anything about. When he died for humanity and for the progress of civilization earnest men everywhere from the pages of history so long as the earth stands.

Abraham Lincoln belongs to the ages, and no history is complete, which does not make him a prominent figure to the events leading up to the present high state of civilization.

The Boomerang today contains a great deal of matter of interest concerning this great man and immortal statesman, who is revered and beloved by every American citizen second to no other character who was ever born on this continent.

So much has been said of Lincoln, words and stories, that it would be idle for us to try to add a word that could awaken an entirely new thought concerning his life and character. But as newspaper is swiftly the mean in this country's history of which is the anniversary of his birth. Soon enough to say something—to think something—new. If possible, old if needs be, about this character which towers as high above average mortals in this wicked and heartless old world.

No man can think of Lincoln without having become a better man by doing so. No man can endeavor to contemplate his wonderful traits of character without receiving a new inspiration in life. Even those who, as much as we think and talk about "Honest Abe" for there are who really realize the length and breadth of his character, and to measure the good work he accomplished for humanity while on this earth, is beyond the power of mortal men—God must be left to the Deity, who alone knoweth the true worth of man.

The Boomerang is proud today of the fact that it lives in a country made great by the Washingtons and Lincolns; proud that it enjoys the distinction of citizenship in a land of which they were not only citizens, but statesmen and patriots. We only wish that the ship of state had at the wheel to-day such men as they in the pilot. And this from the man, the nation today would be the garden spot for all the world in every minutia which makes for the welfare and happiness of mankind. But the sad fact is before us that the country has been a barrying and scurrying away from the Lincoln and Washington monuments at a rapid pace for the past few year, until now could either of these immortals return and review the situation, he would be as a stranger in a strange land.

These are some of the thoughts which crowd the mind and which should be considered by all on such days as these. May the lesson of Lincoln's life, and the governmental ideals which he made known as the only safe pathway for the footsteps of a self-governing people, make an impress upon the mind of every reader of the Boomerang today. Then can we all feel the thrill of interest so necessary in the life of every individual to make it what it ought really to be.

"Ponder well and know the right. Onward, then, with all thy might; Haste not, years can ne'er atone For one reckless action done."

These words of Goethe inspired Lincoln; let them also inspire us as we think of Lincoln today, one hundred years after he was born, and nearly half a century after he is dead.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN

DATA ON A HERO'S LIFE

(Written by Abraham Lincoln for the Chicago Tribune during the campaign of 1860.)

I was born February 12, 1809 in Hardin county, Kentucky. My parents were both born in Virginia of undistinguished families—second families, perhaps, I should say. My mother, who died in my 10th year, was of a family of the name of Hawks, some of whom now reside in Adams and others in Macon county, Illinois. My paternal grandfather, Abraham Lincoln, emigrated from Rockingham county, Virginia, to Kentucky about 1781 or '82, where, a wild region, with many bear and other wild animals still in the woods. There I grew up. There were some schools, so called, but no education of any sort beyond reading, writing and "cipherin" to the rule of three. If a straggler supposed to understand Latin happened to sojourn in the neighborhood, he was looked upon as a wise man and a prodigy. There circumstances tended to excite ambition for education. Of course, when I came of age I did not know much. Still, somehow, I could read, write and cipher to the rule of three, but that was all. I have been to school since. The little advance I now have upon the store of education I have picked up from time to time under the pressure of necessity.

I was raised to farm work, which I continued till I was 22. At 22 I came to Illinois, and passed the first year in Macon county. Then I went to New Salem, at that time in Sangamon, now in Menard county, where I remained a year as a sort of clerk in a store. Then came the Black Hawk war, and I was elected a captain of volunteers—a success which gave me more pleasure than any I have had since. I went through the campaign, was elated, ran for the legislature the same year (1832) and was beaten—the only time I have ever been beaten by the people. The next, and three succeeding biennial elections, I was elected to the legislature. I was not a candidate afterward. During this legislative period I had studied law, and removed to Springfield to practice it. In 1834 I was once elected to the lower house of Congress, but was not a candidate for re-election. From 1849 to 1854, both inclusive, I practiced the more laudiously than ever before. Always a Whig in politics and generally on the Whig electoral ticket, making active canvasses. I was losing interest in politics when the repeal of the Missouri compromise aroused me again. What I have done since then is pretty well known.

"If any personal description of me is thought desirable, I may be said I am in height six feet four inches, nearly; lean in flesh, weighing, on an average, 180 pounds; dark complexion, with sunrise black hair and gray eyes. No other marks or brands recollected. Yours very truly

LINCOLN MEMORIAL

The Lincoln Centenary
The Assassination of Lincoln
By JAMES A. EDGERTON

(Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.)

HE BLUNTED RAVENS A SCALD.

We still stoop our proud heads, but Ilasotiy sky rocks at them in these days and spit them with scorn as with adjectives quite as scathing. We do the same when we begin to help us onward, for we repay its love and service with hatred and reviling and untruly wind up by murdering him in cool blood. Then we try to make up for our base ingratitude by pushing him afterward far in dead and writing his name in stone, ready to repeat our outrageous treatment of him on the next great man that came to help us up the path through the mess.

Lincoln's assassination had been threatened from the time of his nomination for the presidency. The only wonder is that it was averted until the close of the war. Wilkes paid little or no attention to the menacing hints that came to every mail, but many private and public references to the subject show that he realized the tragic death.

He spoke jokingly and that he was a physical coward, yet no man ever showed higher moral courage or self-consciousness of danger. When at the time carrying a bullet-proof vest was a good kleenex. He resented having a guard placed about him and could not be quit it was removed. He went about Washington unguarded at all hours of the day and night, and, while he was extremely careful, he was carefully alive to the dangers, he never made any profitable against them.

He had a sublime faith and philosophy fatalistic, "the best man will be just as bad for them, but in a contrary direction, whether our habits are simple and inexpensive or otherwise. We will be just as safe and as free as we are now."

The hour the blow was struck could not have been more inopportune if it had been arranged from all security. He was even indifferent to the indictment meeting, held on the very day of the assassination, formed one of the greatest assemblies seen of Johnstown's surrounding hills and valleys ever gathered. Lincoln, the great commoner, was absent by his own personal choice, and the cause was the White House and mentioned the matter. He was glad of it. It was better state the facts as he knew them.

"Oh, no," replied Lincoln, "at least not now. If I were to try to recall such lies answer, all the attacks made on me this shop might as well be closed for any other business. I do this very best I know how, the very best I can, and I mean to keep doing so until the end. If the end brings me out all right, what is said against me won't amount to anything. If the end brings me wrong, ten angels swearing I was right would make no difference."

Among the most virulent critics of the president was Horace Greeley. When a visitor came appealed to Lincoln to suppress the paper as a public enemy for it was opposing the war and aiding the enemy.

"I fear you do not fully comprehend the danger of abridging the liberties of the people," replied the President. "Stamping out the very slightest ember may ever justify that act, but the moment had better go to the very extreme of individual freedom to do what it will, be countered into an interference with the slightest expression of the common rights of its citizens."

Examples of his overlooking hostile criticisms were innumerable. Secretary Stanton was not the only one who or the president appointed to a position that he had sought and which but a few one year were accepted as supporters the hour. "I choose always to make political enemies of those whom I cannot use," he said.

Despite the contempt heaped on him in his lifetime, Mr. Lincoln has fared much better at the hands of men than most of the great souls that have uplifted and ennobled the race. France never has done justice to Napoleon Bonaparte, and the character of the French revolution more than 100 years after the beginning of the Bourbon catastrophe. Although Jean d'Arc raised France and was burned for it in 1431, it was less than a century ago that she received general recognition, even at the hand of the Bourbons.

Christina Savonarola preached repeal Brendan purity and religious liberty, in Florence and was excommunicated in 1498, yet it has been in only compara. Every that the world has begun to take Savonarola's true saints rare.

Gaspard de Coligny, one of the purest souls in French history, led the Huguenots in a religious revolution and fell in the bellicose St. Bartholomew's day massacre in 1572, yet poor Coligny has scarcely been noted at his true worth even to this day.

Oliver Cromwell, the forerunner of modern democracy and of civil and religious liberty, died in 1658, yet not till comparatively recent times has his name been rescued from the contempt he must were heaped upon it. The world yet has to do justice to Cromwell.

Thomas Paine, who died the very year Lincoln was born, the real author of the Declaration of Independence and the apostle of liberty in three lands, is still misrepresented, hated and reviled for the work he did. Yet the day will come when Paine will be placed on a pedestal in the finest grand-stand.

Forever the right comes uppermost And ever is justice done.

Although not a martyr, Abraham Lincoln's recognition has been swift and triumphant. Indeed it began the next day after his tragic death. Poet, historian and orator, statesman and sage, defender, Booth thought he was striking down a tyrant, but a master of fact he struck down Lincoln's tradeless and left a hero in his stead and crowned the liberator's fame with the martyr's halo.

Softly and in silence Lincoln bore the undeserved obloquy of his life even day, but as his incompetence he has gained the love of the ages.

Franklin Automobiles
Chassis Frame

You never would tolerate jolting and hard riding in a horse-drawn carriage. No need of it in an automobile. Easy riding horse-drawn carriages, like the Franklin automobile, have wood frame and full elliptic springs. The Franklin chassis frame of wood, laminated, is stronger than the pressed steel frame, and lighter. The steel frame transmits shocks and vibration—gives stiffness and hard riding.

You would not stand for a horse-drawn carriage that bumped and jolted—you would not subject your family nor yourself to its discomfort and danger to health. Apply the same principle to your automobile.

There is a Franklin for every use—four and six-cylinder touring-cars, runabout, closed cars and commercial vehicles.

How Lincoln Was Abused

1809—The Lincoln Centenary—1909

By JAMES A. EDGERTON

(Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.)

It has been said that the most fruitful source of misrepresentation under which a man ever labored was that under which Abraham Lincoln suffered during the years from his tragic death. Poet, historian and orator, statesman and sage, defender, Booth thought he was striking down a tyrant, but a master of fact he struck down Lincoln's tradeless and left a hero in his stead and crowned the liberator's fame with the martyr's halo.

Softly and in silence Lincoln bore the undeserved obloquy of his life even day, but as his incompetence he has gained the love of the ages.

A VERY FINE PRESCRIPTION FOR RHEUMATISM AND KIDNEYS AND BLADDER.

RELIEVES NEARLY EVERY PERSON WHO USES IT

Cut This Out and Save It Or Hand to Some Afflicted One Which Will Certainly Be An Act of Humanity.

The following prescription for the cure of rheumatism and kidney and bladder troubles has no doubt been filled millions of times, viz.: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Salts, one ounce; Tincture, three ounces. These simple, harmless ingredients can be obtained at any good drug store, mixed by shaking well and a dose taken by shaking well before meals.

The dose for adults is a teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime. Drink plenty of water. Avoid all water after each dose. It is stated that this prescription is a positive remedy for kidney trouble and lame back, weak bladder and urinary difficulties, relieves and pains and reducing swollen legs.

A well-known authority states that this mixture acts directly upon the kidneys, relieving at once all kidney disorders, cleanses these sponge-like organs and helps them over to rest and sends the poisonous waste matter and uric acid from the blood which is the cause of rheumatism.

If your back or sides ache and you suffer with a lame bladder it would be wise to try this for a few days.

MEANS CHEAP COAL FOR LARAMIE

When the Laramie Plains railroad gets into the North Park coal fields, there will be no excuse for coal suffering in Laramie the winter of 1910. Oceans of coal exist down there of the best quality, and it can be gathered up practically from the surface of the ground, and which can be put into a wagon at a cost of a ton and a good profit made on the labor. Jacob Hartzell of Walden is showing a sample of this coal to Mr. Tyrold day before yesterday, which shows fairly well coal, and is not a bad specimen. Hiner Lovejoy says he has been beside a lot of solid coal there, there which was 65 feet high, and could be secured without any digging whatever. If it is taken advantage of, the marvelous coal beds of Routt county, Eastern Utah and those who have investigated the country say there is enough coal in sight in Routt county, Colorado to supply the world a century, and that when fully developed there will be enough and enough to forever put at rest the bug and cry that our coal supply is in danger of giving out. And just to think that very soon now Laramie is to be within a stones throw of such a marvelous coal supply as this, is indeed inspiring. Wonder if even that none son of a gun won't corner the market and hold the price here up to the present standard, or perhaps increase it?

Today is a holiday at the varsity until 8 p. m. when we are all requested to go to the Lincoln exercises in the auditorium.

The cooking department in connection and Miss Bonnie made up the Miss Wednesday morning. Everything in best taste and neat and each girl has her private desk, stove, dishes, and most important, dish pan.

The program for the entertainment evening was exceptionally fine. Miss Bonnie is right. We all know that Mrs. Clark and Miss J. Ethel Brown were excellent. They could not be otherwise.

Geo Silsby, formerly a student at the University, writes that he has passed his examinations for admission to West Point military academy. He is to enter there on March 7.

Charles Taft Says Herrick is the Man.

Washington, Feb. 11.—A noted Washington correspondent who is on the inside of most of Ohio's political secrets sends out the following:

"Coming to the gossip which I threatened to lay out for you, strictly private, but no less pointed, word of it. Herrick secretary of the navy. President-elect Taft, and others of the cabinet managers make Myron T. Herrick secretary of the treasury. The Wyoming appointment talked of for this purpose is a joke.

"Brother Henry put it sufficiently strong enough in these words: 'Now that Mr. Secretary Cortelyou is gone, Herrick is the best that we can get.'

"Mr. Taft has allowed the matter of his cabinet way in the matter of Mr. Meyer, to show that Taft will play the naval portfolio, and with this position to his credit Mr. Taft intends that Mr. Meyer has been paid off."

Officially Elected

Washington, Feb. 10.—William H. Taft is officially declared president elect of the United States of America.

The two houses of congress met in joint session in the hall of representatives at 1 o'clock today and formally announced election of W. H. Taft of Ohio and James S. Sherman of New York to be president and vice president of the United States respectively.

RESPECT FOR A LARAMIE MEMBER OF THE HOUSE

Mr. Kline was out when the bill was up for passage of the bum-Preble blinded was brought up, and several of his friends asked that the consideration of the bill be passed until that gentleman could move to have the house moved to the university grounds at Laramie. The house has not failed to note Mr. Kline's loyalty and activity on behalf of the university—Cheyenne Tribune.

IN HONOR OF LINCOLN'S BIRTHDAY

The following has been handed in for publication by a patriotic citizen of Laramie:

"Bravely to do what 'er the time do mands,
Whether with pen or sword, and not to flinch,
This is the task that fits heroic hands,
So are truth's boundaries widened inch by inch.
Whose veins run water let him mate his vocals.
Black fotter sundered is the whole world's gain."

The Commander in Chief of the Grand Army of the Republic lended his request for the observance of Lincoln's birthday in schools and colleges all over the country, and our Grand Army Post is delighted to know that his request is to be heeded here.

President Roosevelt, in speaking of the survivors of the Union army, said: "They did the one deed which if left undone would mean that all else in our history went for nothing."

The flag salute as given by the smaller children is as follows:

"We give our hearts to God, our hearts to God and our country, one country, one language, one flag." The best flag salute in the world and from which the heart is the foundation of His and which God grant may never lose patriotism, but unless they live it, "it becomes as sounding brass and a tinkling cymbal." We are to hear the Abraham Lincoln today, because he was a true patriot, and a lesson we must kindly and gentle man. Which spoke toward some, with charity for all, with firmness in the right as God gives us to see the right, let us strive on to finish the work we are in, to bind up the nation's wounds, to care for him who shall have borne the battle." It is fitting to impart in the rising generation such teachings, and to instill into their young minds his pure and noble patriotism.

moved by Ritter's heart-throb plea. There was not a dry eye in the court room when Ritter finished, and many women were bereft to sobs.

Sprigs in Baby.

"Gentlemen," continued Ritter, "you have a power, a power to restore this man to his family and to seek until he dies. You have a power to commit him to an unmarried life, but you have Ritter's voice sank to an impressive whisper and he pointed his finger dramatically at the jury, "but none day this little Gladys, this little baby whom every one of you have seen in the hospitals and sickness calling in the married life, that baby father will recognize day that little baby will grow up. She will seek out that suspected grave and there she will kneel and the flower that will typify her love and her regard for her father. Gentlemen who shot and killed the man who had wronged her and reduced her mother?"

District Attorney Clifter said was a "more statement of facts," as he said, and the string upon which he played the loudest on his harp of sarcasm was that death should not have said he killed to save his wife and child from Duty but that he shot Davy in self-defense, which contradicts the plea of self-defense. Hurrah for Carrie Arnstrong said that when Bell gave himself up he declared that he had said he "shot and killed Davy."

Mrs. Bell's Story

Mrs. Bell on Thursday injured her husband's cause. She tried in vain to play to the gallleries. Letters were intercepted from Bell to her while he was in Laramie and other places which proved beyond a doubt that he loved his wife and babe and was doing all in his power for them. Mrs. Bell has proven herself a poor, weak-minded girl, easily swayed and influenced in most anything by one who gains her confidence.

The case goes to the jury immediately after the speeches of the attorneys.
